Join us at The Annual Property Law Conference 2026

Property law is no longer static – and as transactions become more complex, regulatory demands increase, and market conditions shift, the professional risks and practical challenges facing practitioners can be significant.

The Annual Property Law Conference 2026, Building on Fundamentals for a Future Focus brings together leading experts and industry professionals to examine the changing landscape of commercial and residential property practice.

Tailored for property lawyers, conveyancers, and advisors working across all areas of the sector, this conference explores the latest developments shaping the field – from emerging regulatory pressures and lending expectations to the growing influence of technology and evolving client needs.

Gain practical guidance on navigating increasingly complex market realities, mitigating legal and procedural risk, and refining your approach in the face of changing commercial, societal, and professional dynamics.

Whether you are acting on significant commercial transactions, guiding clients through construction and development projects, or supporting everyday conveyancing matters, this is your opportunity to stay informed, confident, and future-focused.

Secure your spot today!
